

Letterboxing

This hobby combines navigation and rubber stamp artistry in an outdoor “treasure hunt” quest. It is applicable to a wide variety of ages. It is similar to geocaching but does not require a GPS unit.

Participants make their own letterboxes and hunt for those developed by others. Follow the clues to locate hidden letterboxes, then stamp your journal with the provided (and uniquely designed) stamp. The website includes complete details on how to get started.

There are 8 letterboxes in Van Buren alone!
